OUR DEAD.

BY COLONEL A. M. HOBBS.

"My house shall be called, of all nations, the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."
Den of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing; but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

"It was the worst work that Satan and sin undertook in this world; and they that suffered in it were not martyrs. In a good cause, but convicts in a bad one. Who shall comfort them that sit by dishonored graves?"—Sermon of Henry Ward Beecher.

Vile, brutal man! and darest thou In God's anointed place to preach, With impious tongue and brazen brow, The lessons Hell would blush to teach? The cruel taunt thy lips hath hissed Beneath Religion's holy screen, Is false—as Iscariot's kiss; Is false—as thou art vile and mean.

Are these the lessons which He taught? And was His mission here in vain? Peace and good will seem words of naught— Hell rules the earth with hate again! And thou! thy chosen instruments, Hyena-like, with heartless tread, Hast dared invade with blood-hound scent, The sacred precincts of the dead.

Not such from these, dear brave old South, Who met thee in thine hour of night! But from the coarse, polluted mouth Of coward curs who feared to fight. Dear, loved old South! condemn the curse, That those who hate shall heap on you; You've wept behind War's bloody hearth; That bore away your brave and true!

Their precious blood, though vainly shed, Long as thy shore old Ocean laves, We'll bow with reverence o'er our dead, And bless the turf that wraps their graves From Mexico to Maryland. Those graves are strewn like autumn leaves— What though no mother's tender hand Upon their tomb a chaplet weaves.

Nor wives, nor sisters bend above The Honored Soldier's unmarked mound— They are objects of eternal love In consecrated southern ground. It reeks not where their bodies lie— By bloody hill-side, plate or river— Their names are bright on Fame's proud sky. Their deeds of valor live forever.

The song birds of the South shall sing From forests grand, and flowery stein And gentler waters murmuring, Unite to hymn their requiem. And spring will deck their hallowed bed With types of resurrection's day; And silent tears the Night hath shed The Morning's beam will kiss away.

Those heroes rest in solemn fame On every field where Freedom bled; And shall we let the touch of shame, Fall like a blight upon our dead? No! wretch! we scorn thy hatred now, And hiss thy shame from pole to pole. The brutes are better far than thou, And Hell would blush to own thy soul.

"Dishonored graves?" take back the lie That's breathed by more than human hate. Lest, Ananias-like, you die, Not less deserving of his fate, Our spartan women bow to dust. Around their country's broken shrine; True—as their souls are noble—just. Pure—as their deeds have been divine!

Their angel hands—the wounded cheered— Did all that woman ever dares— When wealth and homes had disappeared; They gave us tears, and smiles, and prayers.

They proudly gave their jewels up— For all they loved and loved best toys; Drank to the dregs Walt's bitter cup To feed our sick and starving boys. Their glorious flag on high no more Is borne by that unconquered band; 'Tis furled upon the "silent shore"— Its heroes still around it stand. No more beneath its folds shall meet The armies of immortal LEE; The rolling of their drums' last beat Is echoing in eternity.

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS.

VOL. XX. CYNTHIANA, KY., SEPTEMBER 27, 1866. NO. 30.

A CENTURY'S SEARCH FOR CAPTAIN KIDD'S BURIED TREASURE—OPERATIONS AT OAK ISLAND, NOVA SCOTIA.
A correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from Chester, Mahone bay, Nova Scotia, gives the following remarkable narrative of Oak Island around which there is wrapped something of romance. The island is a small one on the south coast of Nova Scotia, where it is still believed by many persons that Capt. Kidd, the notorious pirate, buried the bulk of his treasure.

The writer states that a century ago an old man resided in the then British colony of New England, whose life had been wrapped in mystery, but he was always believed to be one of Capt. Kidd's original rovers. When he died, the old man admitted that he did belong to the great pirate's crew and had assisted in burying over $4,000,000 of gold beneath the soil of a secluded island, east of Boston, the proceeds of Kidd's piracies. The settlers along the New England coast heard the story, and for years made an unsuccessful search for the subterranean treasure-vault.

About twenty-five years later, three men named Smith, Vand, and McGinnis, settled in Nova Scotia, Smith and McGinnis took up land on Oak Island. During their work in telling the forests they were astonished to find traces of former civilization, and subsequent discoveries recalled to their minds the old sailor's story. The secluded situation of the island the marks of former habitation, appeared in keeping with all they had heard of Kidd's hidden plunder.

Subsequently they discovered an old pit that had been filled. The mouth of it was seven feet in diameter, and the earth with which it was easily filled up being soft and loamy, was easily removed. They descended foot by foot, and pushed their explorations forward, but found no signs of the lost treasure, and finally abandoned their search.

Fifteen years later, an old resident, named Lynd, examined the ground, and, becoming infatuated with the idea that these were the vaults of Kidd, formed a company, and early in the following spring, commenced the search anew, under the supervision of the three original discoverers. Fifty feet from the surface they came to a tier of putty. Further down was a flag-stone one foot by two, with some rudely-cut letters and figures upon it. They hoped this inscription would assist in solving the mystery, but they were unable to decipher it. At a depth of 90 feet they found indications of water; at 93 feet the water increased. Night coming on, they sunk a crow-bar down five feet, and struck a hard, impenetrable substance, found by the sides of the pit. Some supposed it was wood, others called it a chest. They quit work for the night and returned home, confident that with the morning's sun they would possess the long-sought treasure; and they discussed the question of its division. Morning settled the matter, however, for on repairing to work they found 60 feet of water in the shaft.

To bail out the water was impossible. But a main shaft was sunk by the side of the old one, to be tunneled at the bottom in hopes of striking the money chest. When within ten feet of the proper depth, the pit gave way, and the water flowed in so rapidly that the men barely escaped with their lives.

Fifty years glided into eternity before the work was well renewed, yet the shafts and tunnels still remain full of water, which rose and fell with the ebbing and flowing of the tide in the bay, showing clearly that the island had been pierced by subterranean passages. This brings us down to a period of fifteen years ago. A number of young men in the summer of 1848 proceeded to the Island and renewed the work. They followed down the shaft, and encountered the same difficulty—water coming in upon them. But they pierced the bottom of the pit and struck a hard, wooden substance. Among other articles taken out was Spanish grass and part of the hoop of a barrel with the bark in a state of good preservation.

It was afterwards found that several drains had been built, entering the base of the island at low-water mark. The stores forming the arch of the drains were found coated with Spanish grass. Further discoveries revealed the fact that the drains ran in the direction of the old pit. But the last dollar of the young toilers was spent, and they abandoned the work, yet still believing that they were on the right track of Kidd's treasure.

In 1861 new pits were sunk and tunneled, but without any satisfactory results. Such was the faith in the project, however, that a new company was formed, and includes some of the most influential men of Halifax. They are now having built a dam round the base of the Island, for the purpose of cutting off the bay water from the subterranean channels, when they purpose to pump the water out of the excavations already made, and follow the channels to their termini. It is expected that the dam will be completed the present month, and the company now feel sanguine that Kidd's four millions of gold are almost within their grasp.

Such is the history of the "Toilers" of the Isle. That a stupendous work of art has been constructed at Oak Island, by unknown hands, is a certainty. That most of the material used is indigenous to that region is also certain. What these works were constructed for, and by whom, and what they contain, alone remain mysteries which, let us hope, will soon be cleared up.

The Louisville Courier says, that one of the most beautiful and pleasing incidents of the President's reception here was the greeting given him by thirty-six little girls, each representing a State. The Lexington Observer and Reporter in alluding to it, thus speaks of the petition they presented him, praying for the liberation of Jefferson Davis:

It was meet that in the only real Southern city in which he stopped, and by which he was so cordially and gratefully welcomed, that one prayer for the captive chief of the heroic but conquered South should be made to the President of the United States, it was even more meet that it should be made by little children who will soon to be the real people, whose destinies and happiness even above ours, who will soon pass away, depend upon the success of the policy of the President; still more appropriate that it came from pure and innocent girls, whose future will be peculiarly affected by the result of the contests of to-day; whose happiness and homes—yea, and virtue itself, are hanging upon the scale. War is terrible to men—but unspeakably horrible to women. Should the prayer thus made be heard and granted, millions of hearts will bless the President, and upon his head will millions of tongues pray God to shower his richest, rarest, benedictions.

The Chicago Post, a Radical paper, thus expresses itself concerning the same incident:

When A. Johnson was at Louisville thirty-nine little girls approached him with a petition for the release of Jeff. Davis. They presented a letter which with considerable adroitness, claimed his sympathy "for one who once stood his peer in the councils of the nation." As it is well known that Jeff. Davis always despised Andrew Johnson, and considered him unfit to associate with him, and as this treatment on the part of the Southern aristocrats was the great cause of Andy's not accepting a position in the Confederacy, it cannot be denied that the Louisville ladies have shown the adroitness of their sex in calling Davis the "peer" of Johnson.

They also address him as "our chief magistrate." As the ladies who got up this demonstration were undoubtedly those bitter rebels who have always troubled the government with their secret machinations in that city, the compliment is as delicate as covert. Mr. Lincoln was the "ape," the "monster," the "tyrant." Mr. Johnson is their President. And so he is.

These demonstrations have touched the weak point in Mr. Johnson's character, and produced the intended effect. The telegraph says that A. J.'s heart is moved at the condition of Jeff. and he is desirous of setting him at liberty. This is a new trophy for the secesh women who always boasted they could twist the Federal officers about their fingers.

THE INFAMOUS BROWNLOW.—This reverend blackguard is one of the speakers who are to go over the ground lately traveled by the President. While on this tour he made a speech at Newark, New Jersey, the other night which is reported in the New York Tribune. From it we make the following beautiful extract:

I am before you, not as an alarmist; not as a sensational man. I am before you to predict what you do not want to hear, that is, that you are to have another war. I know something of the temper and spirit of the southern mind. The devil is in them, gentlemen, and the devil is particularly in the man at their head—now the occupant of the White House. (Cheers and laughter.) I shall say nothing without mature and deliberate reflection, and I shall say nothing in New Jersey that I would not say at home, in any of the towns, or in the capital of Tennessee. I say to you that if the rebels of the South, with Andy Johnson at their head, shall plunge this country into another war, and you are forced again to leave your homes and go down into the South to subdue and put down the rebellion, I have something to say about the arrangements that are to follow. I want to have a finger in that pie. I advise that you divide the great army of the North into three divisions; the first shall go armed with small arms and heavy artillery, and do the killing; the second division shall go with spirits of turpentine and pine-knot torches, and do the burning; and the third and last shall go with a surveyor's compass and survey the land into small parcels, and sell them to pay the expenses of the war to men that fight to uphold the honor of the flag." (Applause; cries of "That's good doctrine—that's what they deserve.")

A HORRIBLE AFFAIR.—A correspondent at Milton, Trimble county, gives the particulars of a fiendish transaction in that county. There has been for some time a fisherman and a woman, whom he sometimes declared to be his wife and sometimes not, living together in that county at the mouth of Spring creek, in a rude shanty, made of drift that could be collected on the shore. This man, who went by the name of Kolls, had been guilty, more than once of late, of treating the woman with personal violence. Upon Saturday night, August 25th, her cries were heard, at first very violent, but gradually dying out until they finally ceased. On Sunday when asked about her, he said he had given her a good thrashing the night before and sent her down the river to see her friends. On Wednesday her body was found floating in the river, some 5 or 6 miles below, almost entirely nude and very much bruised and disfigured. She was recognized, the shanty searched, her clothing, even to her shoes, found in her chest, and the pants which Kolls wore on Saturday, (which many could identify) had been washed and turned inside out to dry, and he was accordingly arrested, sent to Bedford, and lodged in jail. There is great indignation manifested towards him by the citizens of the county.—Shelby Sentinel.

We find in a late number of the National Intelligencer an account of a number of articles, formerly belonging to Southern Homes, now to be seen at a Pawnbroker's establishment at Washington city. Among them "is a large silver seal, belonging as the soldier said, down in Virginia. It is the property of some association, which will no doubt be glad to find it, and we understood Mr. Smith that he would be very glad to surrender it to the owners without compensation." The following is the handsome cut inscription: "Astrea Lodge, No. 85, honestas et Virtus"—honesty and valor—a curious motto for a thiefing soldier to be bearing about upon one of his stolen trophies. The seal bears the figure of Justice holding up the scales. There is no positive evidence on it to identify it as belonging either to a Masonic or an Odd Fellow's lodge, but it belongs undoubtedly to one or the other of these fraternities.

SHOOTING FRAY.—On Monday last, a good deal of excitement was created about noon by pistol reports proceeding from Crawford's grocery on Main street. It was found that a young man named Smith, who has recently been working with Mr. Clark, the saddler, had attacked Mr. J. A. Crawford, the grocer, firing in quick succession from the street through a hoisted window. Mr. Crawford returned several of the shots, causing Smith to retreat fifteen or yards to a post from which as a protection he continued to fire. Our efficient Marshal, Mr. Williams was soon on the grounds, however, and arrested Smith. Mr. Crawford received a serious if not dangerous wound. The ball entered just under the shoulder blade and has not been found. Smith was taken before His Honor, Judge Garrett, who sent him on for further trial, and on Smith's failing to give the required bail ($700), he was forwarded to Paris for safe keeping.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel.

A telegram from Kansas City, of the 30th says—

A portion of the Third United States Infantry was sent from Fort Leavenworth to Independence this morning.—The Radicals appear puzzled at this move. It is with Fletcher if there is trouble in this State. If he will disband his partisans, and cease distributing arms to them, all will be well. Otherwise he must take the consequences.

THE NEWS

The Lexington Observer says that on yesterday morning, about 1 o'clock, the wife of an Irishman named Collins, living near where the Nicholasville railroad crosses Broadway, and near what is known as the Nicholasville depot, heard some one rapping on the door—her husband who has a contract for repairing the turnpike from this city to Nicholasville, was away from home but was expected to return late on the night in question. She very naturally supposed it was her husband, and without a suspicion of danger proceeded to the door and opened it. What person or persons were there no eyes but her own in that instant saw, who ever it was. She was shot by a pistol ball in the center of the forehead, scattering the brains in all directions.

A brother-in-law of the murdered woman was in the house at the time, and heard the shot, but says that the shooting is so frequent, and with so little regard to the proximity of houses in that neighborhood that he paid no attention to it. No one in the house dreamed of the crime which had been perpetrated, until some children, when they had arisen in the morning found the door open, and their mother lying stark and dead.

No clue has been obtained to the murderer or murderers; but beyond a doubt the crime was the act of some miscreant, who supposed he had killed the husband instead of the wife, for there is no reason to suppose that there is any one base enough to thus murder a poor, helpless woman who had never given offense to any one.

KILLED.—We have intelligence of a most painful nature from Jessamine county. Alonzo Hughes was shot and instantly killed by Addison Stinnett. Both parties belong in that county, in the Mill precinct. Rumor says they were playing cards in Stinnett's Grocery Saturday night, and towards morning they got into a dispute. Hughes fired at Stinnett several times but missed, when Stinnett shot and killed him. Stinnett is still at large.

Suicide.—There was a man shot and great excitement created in Mt. Sterling on Saturday last. Mr. Alger Thomas and a negro Asa Tucker got into a dispute. The negro drew a navy revolver, Thomas looked down the barrel, the negro fired, Thomas followed, fired, and shot him through the arm. —Observer & Reporter.

The Equinoctial Storm has been raging almost without intermission, for nearly a week past. We have seldom, if ever, saw as much rain fall this time of year as has fallen within the past week. It came down in torrents Thursday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, and part of each of those days. The atmosphere became suddenly cool yesterday, bringing fires overcoats and furs into vogue.

It seems like hoping against hope to expect good weather. For nearly six weeks, we have had only one or two fair days for every ten days of wet, cold, disagreeable weather. Meanwhile, the corn crop stands in the fields, growing but little, and yet, only in "the milk" ready to be destroyed by the first biting frost that comes. We sincerely hope that no such calamity awaits the West as the destruction of the corn crop; but the general fears on the subject are not without grounds. —Charleston Courier.

A Tribunes special says that Secretary SEWARD is nearly well. He rode to the White House on Tuesday, and, being helped into one of the ante-rooms, held a conversation of half an hour with the President Attorney-general SAMBURY and Secretary McCULLOCH. The Secretary is very thin, terribly debilitated, and, in appearance, ten years older than the morning he started upon the Presidential trip. A gentleman addressed an inquiry, this evening, to Assistant Secretary SEWARD, respecting the health of the Secretary, and received the following reply: "He is decidedly better today, and although still weak, is able to sit up and ride out. Dr. MORRIS thinks that in a few days he will be able to resume his official duties."

A Paris letter to the New York Times says:

"The Pope, as a temporal sovereign over any considerable State, will shortly cease to exist. Within a few weeks, the last French sentry embarks from the paternal territories. VICTOR EMANUEL is even now upsetting the convents everywhere selling their farms, renting their cells. In my next letter I wish to give you some sketch of Italy, wherein I will try to show some of the sufferings of the unhoused fathers."

Pollard, the editor of the Richmond Examiner, having been posted as a coward &c., by John Tyler, son of the Ex-President, a duel has been arranged to settle the matter.

James Lawler was arrested in Newport on Saturday last charged with breaking into several houses in that city, Ex-Mayor E. W. Hawkins among the number, and stealing various articles.

A country girl, riding by a turnpike road without paying toll, the gate-keeper halted her and demanded his fee. On her demanding his authority, he referred her to his sign, where she read, "A man and horse, six cents." "Well," replied she, "you can demand nothing of me; this is but a woman and a mare."

ASTEROID.—A dispatch from Mr. Alexander to James A. Grinstead, Esq., of this city, gives the unwelcome information that his fine race horse, Asteroid, broke down in a trial race on Saturday last. This prevented his meeting Kentucky yesterday at Fordham, and will render it impossible for him ever to appear on the turf again. —Kentucky Gazette.

A negro was lynched in Owen county, Ky., on Wednesday last, for an attempted rape on a respectable white girl. It was with great difficulty the infuriated people were persuaded not to roast him over a slow fire.

CINCINNATI LIVE STOCK MARKETS. Brighton pens Monday evening, September 24.

The arrivals of beef cattle for the week ending to-day were about 1,200 head. The number of fresh cattle on sale to-day was only 300 head, the light arrivals being due to the detention of freight trains on the railroads. The offerings being inadequate to the demand, which was good, both from the butchers and feeders, the market closes at an advance of 50 per cent on the quotations current a week ago, with none in the pens this evening unsold. We now quote common 4 a 4 50; fair, $5 a 5 50; good, $6 a 6 50; and prime at $7 per cental, gross.

The arrivals of hogs are also light and the market rules very firm, and prices 25c. higher than at date of our last report, the market closing steady at $9 a 10 25 per cental, gross, for light to heavy averages.

The demand for sheep is fully up to the offerings, and the market is very firm, though no advance has taken place, but the tendency at the close was upward. The whole range for common to prime is $2 50 a 4, gross.

COVINGTON LIVE STOCK MARKET. Ashbrook pens, Monday, Sep. 24.

Cattle.—The supply continues large, and sales during the past week have been rather slow and difficult to make, consequently a considerable number were left over in the pens. We quote shipping cattle at $7 50 a 7 75 per 100 lbs.; first quality of butchers stuff, 6 50 a 6 75; second quality, 5 75 a 6; third quality, 4 a 5. The total receipts since our last report have amounted to 1,540 head, of which 750 head were for the New York market.

Sheep and Lambs.—The demand for sheep has been fair, about equal to the supply. We quote the first quality at 4 75 a 5 per 100 lbs.; second quality at 4 a 4 25; third quality at 3 a 3 50. Aggregate receipts during the past week 1,849 head. Lambs sold at from 2 to 4 per head.

Hogs.—The market has been dull, and sales hard to effect at 9 a 10 per 100 lbs., gross. The present indications are that a decline in prices will soon take place. Receipts during the past week, 296 head.

Mr. John Rouslet, the young man who was arrested in this place a few days since, charged with house burning in Covington, proved an alibi. The Special attention of our readers, is directed to the Statement of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, which we publish in to-day's paper. Our friend J. T. Ashbrook is local agent, at Robinson's Station in this county.

New Music.—We have again been placed under obligations to D. P. Fauds, No. 70, Main street Louisville, Ky., for several new pieces of music among which we might mention that beautiful piece "Father is Here," the words by Sidney Dyer, music by L. V. H. Crosby. Another extra piece called "Light be thy rest,"—a serene—words and music by James W. Long. This is splendid Music.

Two negro women got into a fight last Monday, and tore up the ground as well as their faces and clothes. The last we seen of them Marshall Woods had them as an escort, enroute for the lock-up.

The young men had too much bad whiskey aboard last Saturday evening, and a prospect for a warm time seemed imminent. We can't see what is to be gained by the Confederates denouncing the Federals or the Federals denouncing the Confederates. The war is over and instead of endeavoring a bad spirit we should all encourage peace and good will to all men.

Last week we received a visit from our young and excellent friend Capt. Brown, of Harrodsburg. He was one among the most gallant of the C. S. A.

Caleb Walton, Esq., of this place, sold his fast trotting horse "Bilby" to W. H. Wilson, for one thousand dollars. We understand that Mr. W. has refused fifteen hundred for his bargain.

Mr. John Church, jr., No. 66, West 4th street, Cincinnati, Ohio, will accept our thanks for two pieces of new music, called "Mind you do not Tarry," and a waltz, called "Rose Ridge."

A French firm has offered Chili and Bolivia an advance of $600,000 for the privilege of working the guano deposits.

There is said to be a tremendous stampede from the Radical ranks in Wisconsin. Many of the most prominent Republicans of the State are coming out in favor of the President's policy.

A collision occurred on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, between Desoto and Quitman, a few days since, killing seven persons and wounding seventeen. Two locomotives and several cars were destroyed.

FREEDMAN'S BUREAU.
We have just been informed that a new bureau has been established for this county and Pendleton. The headquarters of the officer in charge has been established in Falmouth.

This institution we suppose will be worked under the new bill passed by the last Congress, which we have not as yet examined into. The main feature, if we have been correctly impressed with its meaning, will be to regulate the labor of the black man in these counties. The propriety of such interference, has already been ably discussed; and to as little purpose, as if nothing had been said. It is not for us to pass an opinion upon its constitutionality, for that instrument has been ignored with impunity; and as we favor obedience to the laws, even if they be made by the New England's nasal-twang Society, or Brownlow's Torch and Turpentine party, we ask all people to do so likewise, with as much grace as possible.

We had dared to hope that we had seen the last of these bureaus, but it seems that our people are yet to be harassed and annoyed. Everything has quieted down—the freedman seems to be doing well and struggling cheerfully to make a support—good feeling has been established between the laborer and employer, and no difficulties arise between them but that justice is given to both parties. The officers of the law in this county are as good men as can be found in the world, and they should be permitted to settle all difficulties that occur here.

We have not been informed that soldiers accompany the officer.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The first Term of the Harrison Criminal Court met this week, Judge W. E. Arthur, on the bench. The bar was well represented by lawyers from this and adjoining counties. R. B. Carpenter was present ready to prosecute with his usual vigor, but the defendants seem to use more than ordinary care to have their cases continued.

It has been known to our citizens that our jail birds have one by one taken their solitary flight, and we may now say "there are no birds in last year's nests."

William, alias Batton Burgess made his escape on the night of the 24th inst., just as he was about to be brought to justice on the charge of horse stealing.

It is understood that our jail will be condemned as unfit and insecure for the safe keeping of prisoners, and arrangements will be made for keeping them elsewhere, and our "public jailor" may now exclaim, "Othello's occupations gone."

John Martin was found guilty of cutting and stabbing in sudden heat and passion, and was fined fifty dollars. John Nevil was found guilty of selling liquor to minors and was fined fifty dollars.

Canada Fightmaster was found guilty of same offence in two instances and fined fifty dollars in each case.

John T. Cook, charged with manslaughter, was discharged, the Grand Jury declining to find an indictment and returning the recognizance dismissed.

Thos. B. Shields charged with wheat stealing was tried and found not guilty.

John Cronan charged with hog stealing, was found not guilty. The jury in both cases remained out but a few moments. John clearly proved to the court that he was no "hog order man."

Joseph Durossett was arrested last Tuesday night for willfully and maliciously shooting a negro boy, on the road leading to Oldville. It is said that the boy gave him no provocation. His case will come before the court to-day.

The Grand Jury have been hard at work investigating the Goings of law breakers, but have not brought in their indictments. We hope they will not cease as long as an evil-doer lurks in the county.

It is said that Alexander Dunn, an old offender and jail breaker was arrested in Scott county, on a charge of horse stealing, and will be brought to this county on to-morrow, to answer at this bar a charge of grand larceny.

A rule was taken this morning against the magistrates of this county returnable to the next term of this court to show cause why they shall not build a jail suitable to the wants of the county.

AUGUSTA, Bracken co., Ky.
SEP. 20th, 1866.

MR. EDITOR:—I have with many others been casting about to find a suitable gentleman as a candidate for representative to our next State Senate, and as the people of this county expect Old Harrison to furnish the Senator, you will excuse me for suggesting the name of I. T. MARTIN, Esq., as one who will be entirely agreeable to the democracy of Bracken. He will make a suitable Standard Bearer in the August campaign. Let the democracy of old Harrison nominate him, and Bracken will give him a thousand majority. DEMOCRAT.

MILLERSBURG Sep. 24th 1866.

MR. EDITOR:—It is seldom that I annoy the fraternity to which you are attached, for I don't like to be seen in print; but the emergency seems to demand that something should be said which may please some and displease others. Last week was one of rain, mud, omnibuses and whiskey. The rain fell night and day in torrents—and old South Licking got over her banks, and seemed almost as reckless as some gentlemen who had put themselves outside of to much red-eye.

But the Fair went on, the people not a whit dismayed at the rough weather, many of them believing that should the world take another drenching, in memory of the one it took in the days of Noah, to be at the Fair Grounds would be a safer place than home, for they could soon knock up an Ark there big enough for Harrison.

The rain continued to fall, almost incessantly. The young folks determined to dance. Some believed it to be dangerous to move out in the rain with that portion of the party which always lights up an affair of the kind with bright smiles and rosy cheeks, for fear they might melt; so David Veatch's Livery Stable was brought into requisition, and he landed the ladies safe and dry at the Dancing Hall.

And there they were as gay and handsome, as the most vivid imagination could picture—and on went the ball, and down came the rain. It was a good thing—a happy gathering—harmony and love—smiling on this youth, and frowning on the other—now talking, now dancing with hands all round, now whirling a waltz, now promenading, and then eating an apple.

"How delightful this music," says one young lady to her sweet-heart. "I could almost be fiddled out of the world with those musicians," says a second—and so the dance and time passed on until the old town clock struck 2 in the morning. Then they commenced leaving for home, and soon the Hall was as still as death, as all the fairy forms and fair faces had gone, and nought could be heard or seen but an enormous old rat carrying off with all his powers a piece of an apple, which successful raid brought many another of his kind for plunder of the same sort, doubtless, before the morning sun shone again. While all this was going on the rain continued to fall.

Mr. Editor, you will excuse me but you must publish the notices here-with annexed:

Among the beauty and fashion displayed at the dance, I could but admire Miss Mattie R. e, arrayed in white with red trimmings. She had a host of admirers.

Miss Ella W.—t, was attractive and dignified in her style and bearing and won upon the hearts of her friends.

Miss Mat P.—n, was faultless in her dress and carriage, and moved among a host of friends with that nonchalant characteristic of a queen.

Miss Fay W.—n, of Bourbon, could well be announced the belle.—For beauty, intelligence and dignity she was not surpassed.

Miss Mattie T.—d, was a bright and brilliant star, seemingly just arisen in the east, with such a glow of light as at times to eclipse her sisters.

Miss Laura S.—r, had many admirers, and with her pretty face wreathed in smiles, passed through the dance with sylph-like lightness.

Miss Mary P.—k, was tastefully and neatly adorned, graceful in her manners, and with a queenly carriage and intelligent face, interested a host of admirers.

Miss Ella C.—k, of Covington, was at home in the Hall. She is pretty as a poet's dream.

Miss Lucy P.—k, the la petet personification of grace and beauty, was the observed of all.

Miss Sue T. W.—d, was dignified and lady-like in her demeanor.

Miss Annie K.—r, of Covington, was one among the most fascinating and beautiful of her sex.

Miss Pugh D.—y, the gayest among the gay, and beautiful as a houri.

Miss Nannie K.—r, was remarkable for her lady-like deportment and excellent beauty.

There were many others, whose beauty and intelligence attracted attention, among whom we noticed the following:

Mrs. Mollie McA—y, was elegantly and chastely dressed, and with her dignity and sprightliness found plenty of admirers.

Mrs. F—x, of Paris, was among the bright particulars. The Miss W—s, were complimented for their beauty and vivacity.

Misses Mollie L—d, A. A—n, Mollie E—h, the Miss G—ns, Miss R—d, Miss K. W—t, of Bath county, the Miss M—rs, and many others. I have already occupied more space than I intended, but this kind recreation comes but once a year, so farewell till next year. CRIBBAGE.

LIGHT EQUAL TO GAS!

PATENT

Gas Condensing Burners!

Can be used on any Lamp and dispense entirely with Globes or Chimneys. The flame produced by these burners spreads out similar to that of Gas. The construction is such that the smoke is confined in a gas condensing chamber, and is wholly converted into flame. The burner does not depend directly upon the wick for its lights, but burns the smoke which is produced therefrom. No trimming of wick is ever required; and also a saving of Thirty-three per cent. less oil than Chimney Lamps and produces a more brilliant light than any other burner in the market.

State and County Rights for sale, by W. L. DUBBY, Maysville, Ky.

Read the testimonials from well known and highly respectable citizens of Maysville: "We, the undersigned, take pleasure in stating that the above Lamp, for which W. L. Dupuy is the authorized agent, has been tried by us with perfect success in every particular, and meets with our entire and unqualified approbation, and we would cheerfully recommend it to all those who would have a nice light, with one-fourth less oil besides dispensing with the trouble and expense of chimneys." Geo. Lloyd, A. Bergeman, H. T. Stanton, Geo. W. Coons, H. H. Cox, R. H. Stanton, Sam. C. Pearce, and many others.

All letters addressed to me will receive prompt attention. Will be found at the Rankin House, during the Fair week. Sept. 13th, 1866.

FATAL SHOOTING.—On last Saturday evening, as Doc Trimble, a resident of this county, and brother of our worthy deputy sheriff, J. H. Trimble, was returning to his home, when about three miles from this place on the Ticktown pike, he was fired upon by some unknown person from a cornfield, 8 or ten shot entering his left side, shattering his arm, inflicting a mortal wound from which he died on Sunday evening. A man named Curtley was riding in company with Trimble when upon. On the Saturday previous, Mr. Trimble was fired upon under similar circumstances somewhere beyond Ticktown in this county. As yet there is no clue to the murderer. Mr. Trimble rendered himself obnoxious to many by his conduct during the late war and therein we may look for the cause of his unhappy end.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel.

RECIPE FOR HOG CHOLERA.—John B. Herndon, of Mason county, communicates the following cure, which has proved effectual with one of his neighbors, whose hogs were afflicted with the destructive disease.

"Take one peck of ashes, 4 lbs salt, 1 lb black antimony, 7 lbs copperas, 1 lb sulphur, 1 lb saltpetre—pound the ingredients fine and mix them well, and keep them constantly in a trough by itself, and each hog will eat what he needs of the medicine from day to day.

If a hog should get down, drench him, or induce him to drink in slops, one gill of coal oil per day.

The best preventive is to give your hogs regular and wholesome food good pasture in season, and moderate salting, mixed with ashes.

Gen. George V. Moody, a brother of the Rev. Gen. Granville Moody was shot dead by an unknown assassin, in his office at Port Gibson, Mississippi, on Saturday night. Nine buckshot were lodged in his head. Gen. Moody had lived in Port Gibson for twenty-nine years. He was a lawyer by profession, and had attained wealth and eminence. He served four years in the rebel army, commanding the artillery in Longstreet's corps. He fought in twenty-eight battles. He was fifty years of age.

The Louisville Courier says a circumstance which recently occurred in Terre Haute. A young lady was, through the tyranny of her parents, to be married to a man she didn't love—she told him she loved some one else. Her lover came to the house to witness the nuptials, and as soon as she saw him she exclaimed "There's the man I love and want to marry." She ran out of the house, got in her "lover's" buggy, and they put out and got married, much to the astonishment and chagrin of the "party of the first part," who was there holding the bag.

IN connection with my Piano Forte agency I have Wilcox & Gibbs' Twisted Loop Stitch Family Sewing Machine, which equals any other in efficiency, and far surpasses all others in the important particulars of simplicity, durability, cheapness, noiselessness, and beauty of motion. It has received the most marked commendations ever given any one machine, no less than twenty-five first premiums during the fall of 1864, besides the Gold Medal at the American Institute New York. It is just now being introduced in the West. I freely extend to it the same responsibility I exercise over my other business, which with my friends at least, will be sufficient guarantee for them to accept my choice of machines as their own and thus save themselves the exceeding perplexity of an extended investigation. Sample machines can be seen at my music room.
